

Weather Tracking Name _____ Date _____

INTRODUCTION
Hurricanes can generate swirling clouds that form massive tropical storms. Their high winds, heavy rain, and huge waves cause destruction to the millions of people who live in the Caribbean region as well as those people who live along the Gulf Coast of the United States.

Because of their potential for causing damage, hurricanes are always tracked very carefully. Meteorologists need to be able to warn people that they are in the path of a hurricane so they have time to prepare or evacuate. In this activity, you will chart the course of Hurricane Charley, a 2007 storm which devastated the Sunshine with sustained winds peaking at 125 mph. Hurricane Charley was one of the most powerful hurricanes ever recorded.

MATERIALS
Hurricane tracking map
Ruler
Colored pencils or crayons (optional)

STUDENT OBJECTIVES

1. Make a dot on the map showing the location of the storm for each date listed below.
2. After plotting all 15 locations, connect the dots with a smooth line showing the course that the storm took.

STEPS

1. Color the dots different colors to show the wind speed at each location. For example, color all dots red where the wind speed was greater than 72 miles per hour (the cutoff speed for a storm to be considered a hurricane). Use a few colors to show some of the different stages of Hurricane Charley.
2. Use the map to chart the coordinates of a different hurricane. Use the labels to find the date and coordinates of significant hurricanes or track a hurricane as it develops. The National Weather Service's Hurricane/Storms Center at www.gov/hurricane/ is an excellent source for hurricane coordinates.
