Respiration BMZ116B Study Guide

- To perform their many tasks, living cells require _____ from outside sources.
- Energy enters most ecosystems as _____ and leaves as _____.
- Photosynthesis generates _____ and _____ that the mitochondria of eukaryotes use as _____ for cellular respiration.
- Cells harvest the chemical energy stored in organic molecules and use it to regenerate _____, the molecule that drives most cellular work.
- Respiration has three key pathways: _____, the _____, and _____.

A. The Principles of Energy Harvest

1. Cellular respiration and fermentation are catabolic, energy-yielding pathways.

- The arrangement of atoms of organic molecules represents _____ energy.
- Enzymes _____ the systematic degradation of organic molecules that are rich in energy to simpler waste products with _____ energy.
- Some of the released energy is used to do _____; the rest is dissipated as _____.
- Catabolic metabolic pathways _____ the energy stored in complex organic molecules.
- One type of catabolic process, _____, leads to the partial degradation of sugars in the absence of oxygen.
- A more efficient and widespread catabolic process, _____, consumes _____ as a reactant to complete the breakdown of a variety of organic molecules.
 - In eukaryotic cells, _____ are the site of most of the processes of cellular respiration.
- Cellular respiration is similar in broad principle to the combustion of gasoline in an automobile engine after _____ is mixed with hydrocarbon fuel.
 - _____ is the fuel for respiration. The exhaust is _____ and _____.
- The overall process is:
 - organic compounds + _____ → _____ + _____ + energy (_____ + _____).
- Carbohydrates, fats, and proteins can all be used as the fuel, but it is most useful to consider glucose.
 - _____ + 6O₂ → 6CO₂ + 6H₂O + Energy (ATP + heat)
- The catabolism of glucose is _____ with a ΔG of -686 kcal per mole of glucose.
 - Some of this energy is used to produce _____, which can perform cellular work.

2. Redox reactions release energy when electrons move closer to electronegative atoms.

- Catabolic pathways transfer the _____ stored in food molecules, releasing energy that is used to synthesize _____.
- Reactions that result in the transfer of one or more electrons from one reactant to another are oxidation-reduction reactions, or _____ reactions.
 - The loss of electrons is called _____.
 - The addition of electrons is called _____.
- The formation of table salt from sodium and chloride is a redox reaction.

Chapter 9 Cellular Respiration Graphic

Chapter 9 Cellular Respiration Graphic In Chapter 9, students will learn how cellular respiration and fermentation provide organisms with the energy they need to survive. Students will show this understanding by interpreting multiple, detailed figures. They will also practice their data analysis skills by collecting and interpreting data on the byproducts of cellular respiration. CHAPTER 9 ...

Access PDF Cellular Respiration And Fermentation Chapter 9 Cellular Respiration And Fermentation Chapter Cellular respiration and fermentation produce energy for cells to use. Any chemical process that yields energy is known as a catabolic pathway. For nearly all organisms on Earth (except chemolithotrophs), that energy is stored in organic molecules. Cells release the energy in those organic ...

Vocabulary terms from Chapter 9 of Prentice Hall Biology. ALSO A HARD CHAPTER! It covers the process of cellular respiration that cells of heterotrophs undergo. Tip: If you're unlucky enough to have photosynthesis and cellular respiration together on a test (like me), to keep from getting confused, just remember that between NADP+ and NAD+ the "P" stands for "plants" or "photosynthesis", so the NAD+ is with cellular respiration. Also, between NADPH and NADH. Good luck! :)
